

« And the winner is ... »

The photo contest for world migratory bird day is now over! Thanks to all of you who participated and sent us beautiful pictures of birds. We reached a decision and picked one particular picture as the winner of the competition: it is the amazing photography of white-throated bee-eater by M. Georges C. HEDEGBETAN from CREDI ONG.

Photography is beyond simple visual beauty. It is a whole world that can share values and messages sometimes even in a clearer manner than any word could depict. M. HEDEGBETAN's photography shows the beauty of migratory birds' world but with all the softness and energy of life. Acting for the conservation and preservation of their habitat is keeping the possibility to admire everyday the magic of their lives. M. HEDEGBETAN will be able to experience a great tour on Nokoue Lake with the person of his choice and will take maybe even more beautiful pictures of birds.

Let's protect our environment together and thank you all for your participation!
